

GBD Architects is interviewing for a second Sustainability Coordinator for our office in downtown Portland, Oregon.

Since 1969, we have grown from a firm with a focus on office environments to one with a focus on diverse project types and mixed-use neighborhoods. We create work, recreation and residential buildings which meet the highest standards of environmental performance. GBD currently has a staff of 96 professionals, and we are an Oregon Corporation, wholly owned by the employees.

As a full-service Planning, Architecture and Interior Design firm, all of our projects are influenced by our commitment to integrate environmentally conscious green design solutions. The position calls for assisting the current sustainability coordinator, project team members, clients and consultants to help ensure our projects meet LEED certification and other energy efficiency performance goals.

Duties will include: researching products, strategies, and design tools; advising project teams on LEED requirements and certification procedures; identifying incentives and economic benefits; providing input on marketing and training presentations.

Experience: LEED Accredited Professional, 1-3 years experience in Architecture, Engineering, Construction, Real Estate Development or related fields.

Software: MS Office, PowerPoint proficiency required; AutoCAD, energy modeling experience desirable.
