

Electrical Engineer/ Project Manager

Sparling, the largest specialty electrical engineering and technology consulting firm in the nation, is seeking an experienced electrical engineer/project manager for our downtown Portland office. The major project focus for this position includes healthcare facilities, lab/research facilities, and central energy plants. Other projects may include university campuses, data centers/mission critical facilities, retail development, and commercial office buildings. Our engineers are the best in the industry, and our own Sparling University drives their professional development to new heights.

We are seeking talented electrical engineers who take pride in delivering superior results and enjoy a positive culture where we live our values of integrity, sharing, curiosity, honesty, initiative, diversity, and contributing.

Qualities we seek in an Electrical Engineer/Project Manager:

- "Client-first" approach in developing key relationships and delivering results.
- Experience designing power distribution systems, voice/data systems, and low voltage systems for the built environment.
- Knowledge of generator synchronization controls and fault analysis using sequence networks.
- Strong knowledge of regional healthcare, higher education, and life science communities including architects, engineers, contractors, and facilities.
- Proven project management skills with the ability to manage complex projects and teams to budget and schedule.
- Bachelor's degree in electrical engineering.
- 10+ years related experience strongly preferred.
- PE registration strongly preferred.

Investments we make in our people:

- Full group insurance benefits
- Paid overtime for salaried positions
- Performance bonuses
- 17 paid days off to start, plus paid holidays
- 401(k) with company contribution
- Flexible spending plan with company contribution
- On-site learning and career development through Sparling University
- Commuter assistance
- Paid professional association membership
- Free passes to area attractions
- Relocation assistance to help bring the best staff to the best company
