

BOLIVIAN WOOD PRODUCTS FOR THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST

CONSERVING THE AMAZON THROUGH RESPONSIBLE CONSTRUCTION

As part of the World Wildlife Fund’s (WWF) broad conservation strategy for the Southwest Amazon ecoregion (including Bolivia, Peru and Brazil), the Forest & Trade Network (FTN) works directly with communities and companies to improve forestry activities. The Bolivia Forest & Trade Network provides economic incentives for responsible forest managers by developing new markets for “Lesser Known Timber Species” certified through the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC). Learn about the myriad wood species and products WWF-partner organizations are bringing to the market thanks to the truly triple-bottom line efforts led by the WWF.

Steve Gretzinger, WWF Coordinator for FTN activities in Latin America will discuss the role that responsible purchasing can play in conserving tropical forests. Steve brings over 13 years of experience working with environmental organizations, industry, and indigenous communities in South America.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14

Billy Frank Conference Center, Ecotrust
721 NW 9th Avenue
Portland, Oregon

11:30 AM to 1:30 PM workshop
Lunch is included

COST

Member: $20 by March 7
$30 after March 7
Nonmember: $25 by March 7
$35 after March 7

Lunch will be provided.

Emerging Green Builder: please call 503-228-5533

Member pricing is for USGBC/CaGBC and 100 Friends, employees of sponsoring organizations or nonprofit organizations.

QUESTIONS

About the workshop or registration?
info@cascadiagbc.org OR 503-228-5533

SPONSORED BY

GLOBAL FOREST
& TRADE
NETWORK

